POCOMAR: Rescue unit made up of volunteers

DAVE JOHNSON
 InPort News Staff

PORT COLBORNE — Lake Erie can be a dangerous place for boaters.

The shallowness of the great lake can make navigating tricky in many places and when the wind picks up, small waves can suddenly increase in height and in ferocity.

And if you're a boater caught up on a shoal or battling fierce waves with a disabled vessel somewhere between Point Abino and the Grand River, help isn't too far away.

The dedicated volunteers from the Port Colborne Marine Auxiliary Rescue (Pocomar) unit are always on standby, ready to rush out in all weather conditions to help boaters.

One of those crew members is Jeff Richard, who has been with the rescue unit for 10 years now.

"I've been around water all my life," Richard says.

■ REVISED COSTS

Project ready for tender

As the project readies to go to tender, the new community centre advisory committee met to discuss revised estimates, fundraising efforts and project details that will need to be confirmed in the near future.

Revised estimates containing further detail were presented Wednesday night by MHFM senior project manager Les Gamm, who said the total project cost now sits at $35.25 million.

The previous estimate for construction of the full proposal — which includes both a lap and leisure pool, a multipurpose field house, two NFL-sized arenas, change rooms for the arenas and pools, a walking and jogging track and eight outdoor bocce courts — put a $35.5-million price tag on the project.

A number of cost deductions were made to lower the project costs, including the removal of a gym scoreboard and pool timing equipment, which the committee hopes to find corporate sponsorship for, and the removal of paved overland parking areas — which will be gravel based and can be paved in the future if necessary.

Gamm said there will be a small number of items that are priced separately in the tender documents, such as the additional paved area and the field house, that can be removed or added to the overall bid.

This will allow project costs to be reduced in certain areas if necessary, he said.

The project is expected to go to tender July 20.

Also expected to be ready July 20 is the sponsorship package for the centre, which will contain information on corporate, philanthropic and individual donations.

Performance Sponsorship Group has been working with Sandy Pilot, the city's community partnership coordinator, to compile a list of potential sponsors for the corporate sponsorship campaign.

The separate regional philanthropy and individual donation campaign will consist of three main parts — seat sponsorship, which will have seats inscribed with the names of the donor, private donations and a dedication walkway campaign, the latter of which will partner the city with Glenmount Memorials.

Tim and Dianne Sturman of Glenmount Memorials brought samples of cement and granite blocks with sand-blasted lettering for the committee to review.

Although details of the types of blocks and their locations have yet to be finalized, they will play an important role in raising funds for the centre.

Blocks will be purchased for a still undetermined amount and in return the families, individuals and businesses will have their names inscribed.

The committee discussed potential for either a walkway outdoors or an inscribed walkway indoors.

Pilot said she's expecting to see a minimum of $300,000 raised in the dedication walkway campaign alone.

The blocks will make great presents for the holidays, birthdays or to commemorate a family member or occasion, she added.

During the meeting, the committee briefly discussed seating options for the arena as well as flooring options for the field house, options that will be discussed in greater lengths at future meetings.

Crews train to make sure they're ready for anything

He says being part of the rescue unit appealed to him from a boaters' perspective and added it's a good way to give back to the community.

"I'm doing something I enjoy," and it doesn't matter what Richard and the other crew members are doing. When their papers go off, they rush out the door to help people in need.

"I've been enjoying a barbecue on a long weekend and my pager has gone off. You know someone is out there and needs help."

Richard says it's satisfying to lend a hand to a standard boater.

Those boaters being helped could be stranded on a shoal offshore, exposed due to low-water conditions, or because they weren't paying attention to where they were.

Boaters who need assistance from Pocomar could also be someone who has had a mechanical failure or simply run out of fuel.

Richard says weather conditions don't stop Pocomar members.

"We'll head out when most people won't."

He recalls times when Pocomar was sent on a call to head toward Buffalo in less-than-ideal weather.

"People tend to overestimate wave heights, but I've been out in 10-footers [a little more than three metres] on multiple occasions."

It takes time to plow through waves that big, he says, and sometimes the Pocomar crews have been called off just as they've neared a scene, but they still have to go back through those same waves.

While Pocomar's two boats, the Donald R. Workman and the Ted Cook, are painted in the Canadian Coast Guard colours of red and white, Richard says many people, even those being helped, don't realize the crews on board are all volunteers who aren't compensated for their work.

The only compensation for the rescue unit comes via the Canadian Coast Guard. But that money only covers actual rescues, it doesn't cover the cost of training.

"The city (Port Colborne) helps us out a bit and we try to raise money through fundraisers. A lot of people we help willingly give us a donation and we appreciate it," Richard says.

One major fundraiser for the group is the Jim Gram Tribute Golf Tournament at Whiskey Run Golf Course, the second annual one taking place on Saturday, June 26, at 1 p.m. Gram, who died two years ago, was one of the founding members of the rescue unit.

Pocomar, based out of Sugarloaf Harbour Marina in Port Colborne, was formed in 1988 by a group of local boaters and started off with just one boat.

Andrew Watts, the current commander, says the unit has three qualified crews, consisting of 35 members in total and the two boats.

Though Pocomar mainly operates in the waters directly off of Port Colborne, the Joint Rescue Co-ordination Centre in Trenton often tasks it to respond to calls from the Niagara River to the Grand River in Dunnville, and beyond. It is consistently one of the busiest marine search and rescue auxiliary units in all of central and Arctic Canada.

"Last year we responded to 32 tasks (calls) and that was up from the previous year," Watts says, adding the coverage area of the unit is roughly 570 square kilometres of Lake Erie.

He says though the unit is sent out by Trenton, it also works with the Canadian Coast Guard through its radio station in Prescott. It also works with the U.S. Coast Guard at times and private rescue vessels such as Sandman out of Port Colborne, the Diritwater Fox of Port Erie and the Southern Wind.

When a call comes out, the duty coxswain and crew are paged and head to the docks at Sugarloaf Harbour Marina.

Those crews are all trained in boat-handling skills and have VHF radio operator certificates. They also learn how to tie knots and, though it's not a requirement, they have boat operating licences.

Training sessions are carried out twice a week and the unit takes part in different search and rescue training exercises.

Pocomar crews will get some training on Sunday, May 30, with an on-water search and rescue exercise off of Port Colborne. It will be a joint exercise between various local coast guard auxiliary units as well as regular coast guard units from the Cape and the Great Lakes. Dover U.S. Coast Guard members from Buffalo may also take part.

It's an annual training exercise jointly co-ordinated by the Coast Guard and the auxiliary involving a mock search and rescue event in which crews will be given information of a distress situation and will be assigned a search area and pattern to proceed.

As the scenario progresses, more information is given to the crews and they must act appropriately. Each crew is evaluated on its overall performance by an on-board evaluator.

"Whether it be an exercise or a real task, Watts says Pocomar's two boats can handle the work."

"Our smaller boat (the Ted Cook) is a jet boat and can go in close to shore. It can operate in about 12 inches (30 centimetres) of water."

The larger boat, the Donald R. Workman, is used for towing vessels and can handle the rough Lake Erie waters. It also has a small rigid inflatable on board that can get in close to shore if needed.

Watts says besides people getting stuck around, mechanical failures account for a number of calls for help. But the biggest reason the unit gets called out is due to boaters running out of fuel.

He says boaters need to check over their vessels before heading out on the water, that way they hopefully won't need to call on Pocomar's services.

Sadly, this is quite a distance from the ratio of 2:1 found in traditional diets and as recommended by an international panel of lipid experts.

What's more, in a large study published in Nutrition and Cancer (2000; 36: 355-62), it showed that a higher intake of omega-3 fatty acids relative to omega-6 is associated with a decreased risk of skin cancer. Following this, a study in Carcinogenesis showed that cod EPA can reduce the levels of sebum in humans and potentially reduce the risk of skin cancer based on its ability to interfere with DNA damage. As most of our annual UV damage comes not from the occasional vacation in the sun but daily exposure without sunscreen protection, dietary consideration such as anti-inflammatory and omega-3 fatty acids becomes all the more relevant and important for our long-term health and well-being.

While fish oils are not a substitute for medical treatment of dermatological conditions, the exciting research we have today provides enough reason to include adequate intake of omega-3 fatty acids into our diets for healthy glowing skin.

■ MEMORIALS: Glenmount opens shop for weekend tour

Family business rock solid

DAVE JOHNSON
InPort News Staff

PORT COLBORNE — They make more than headstones at Glenmount Memorials.

"We can carve into rocks for people's gardens, do pet memorials and even small rocks for weddings," owner Tim Sturman said during an open house at the Port Colborne-based business last weekend.

Glenmount Memorials was founded in 1951 by Frank and Helen Greensides, on Glenmount St. in Hamilton. The business was later moved to the Gasline area of Port Colborne and was purchased by William and Margaret Sturman in 1961.

Sturman said the Greensides were family friends and the business was originally right across from its current location on Hwy. 3.

"Ten years ago my wife Dianne and I took it over,"

Today, the company has six employees who make a few hundred headstones a year for cemeteries across Niagara, though the main focus is on the Port Colborne, Port Erie and Welland area. The company has a sales office in Welland.

"We're the only company in Port Colborne and one of the few that manufacture our own monuments."

Sturman said the company is affiliated with the Quebec-based Rock of Ages Corp. That company purchases granite from around the world and makes the headstone to design specifications that Glenmount's customers want.

When headstones arrive at Glenmount, staff use high-pressure sand blasting to carve out letters, names, designs and shapes each customer wants.

"We cover them in rubber to protect the stone and use relief carvings to make the designs."

Rubber layers are pulled off the headstones during the process to give depth to letters and designs.

Sturman said polish is taken off stones so letters and designs show up.

It can take up to a few months from start to finish to make a headstone. Sturman said people can choose from headstones on site that already have some designs in them and that can help shorten the process a bit.

In addition to making new headstones, Sturman said the company works with area cemeteries to fix, repair, restore and clean any broken or old headstones.

FAIR TRADE SEMINAR

PORT COLBORNE — Fair trade is not only limited to food, jewelry, pottery and soccer balls.

It also includes intricate rugs that will soon make their way to Port Colborne for the Ten Thousand Villages fair trade rug event, which kicks off with a seminar May 28, at 7:30 p.m. The free seminar will offer a glimpse into the world of quality, handmade rugs and demonstrate the ancient art of Oriental rug making, from setting up warp to tying fringes. Tracy Tarran of Ten Thousand Villages on Clarence St. said last year's event was successful, with some people curious about the rugs while others shopped for the products that can last between 100 and 150 years. High-quality Persian, Bokhara and tribal rugs are made by fairly paid families in Pakistan. It takes about one year to make a 5x7-foot rug. Prices range between $350 and $10,000. A wide variety of rugs of all shapes and sizes will be up for sale from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Saturday in a portion of the Rossmans Clothing store on Clarence St. from May 28 to June 5.

How Would You Like to Have Beautiful Hair?

My name is Marianne Schneider. I am 54 years old and I have had hair problems as long as I can remember. I have experimented with an endless array of shampoos, sprays, hair treatments and conditioners and I have spent an enormous amount of money in hair salons. But all those efforts were to no avail... the results didn't last more than a few hours, at best.

When I was 49 it got even worse - one day I started shedding large tufts of hair. I consulted doctors and had my hormone status analyzed. I tried Schuessler salts and body detox therapy, none of which had any lasting effect. Finally, I had my hair cut short and only ventured into public wearing a headscarf because, by now I had so little hair left that my scalp was clearly visible. My friends pretended not to notice and told me it wasn't that bad. Sometimes though, I caught them sneaking glances at my head. And those stares at the supermarket or at the cinema - sometimes it was simply unbearable.

About three years ago, I met a woman who took me aside and asked, "Do you have a problem with your hair? Have you ever heard of silica?" Then she told me her own tale of woe, she said, "I had the same problem as you. Three years ago I suffered a lot of stress in my job and personal life and I started losing all of my hair. My daughter suggested that I try Original Silicea Balsam." This woman told me it took about three months, but you know, her hair looked remarkable!

So I tried Original Silicea Balsam and before long my hair actually started to grow back! In time it became much thicker and it felt much stronger. After about six months my hair had a wonderful shine and it looked very healthy.

Now I have the beautiful hair I have been dreaming of all my life. Although I am still the object of sneaky glances, and again it's because of my hair - but now I revel in those glances admiring my beautiful, healthy hair.

■ NIAGARA PROSPERITY INITIATIVE: Three Bridges neighbourhood

Port poverty projects net $220,000

MARYANNE FIRTH
InPort News Staff

PORT COLBORNE — The lakeside city's Three Bridges neighbourhood received a big boost from the region Monday.

Niagara Property Initiative announced it will be investing $220,000 to fund nine poverty reduction and neighbourhood development projects in Port Colborne.

The funding will address four key themes: youth engagement, healthy living, family engagement and neighbourhood/business engagement.

Eight agencies will oversee the various projects, which include a community food bank, furniture bank, after school and summer recreation program, nutrition program and neighbourhood engagement strategy.

The funding is part of a $1.5-million investment in seven Niagara neighbourhoods identified as most in need. The neighbourhoods were identified using a number of indicators including education, unemployment and income levels, as well as percentage of income spent on housing.

Mayor Vance Badawey said the region, in partnership with the municipalities, has a strategy in place to address an issue people don't often like to talk about.

"That's the issue of poverty," he said, while standing out front of the Port Cares Reach Out Centre.

"Poverty is a reality in every community in Canada and Niagara, including Port Colborne. It certainly is a reality for many individuals living in the Three Bridges neighbourhood."

Badawey expressed his pride in the ventures the city has taken on through a number of partnerships with both local agencies and government bodies to address the challenges that exist within the community.

Homelessness and unemployment do exist

He said the groups, agencies and volunteers work "tirelessly" to address these issues in hopes of achieving one common goal — the increased prosperity for individuals, families and neighbourhoods in Port Colborne and the region.

Regional Coun. Bob Saracino said it was an emotional day for him to travel back to the neighbourhood where he was born and raised.

He told the crowd it was moving to see investment being made to assist the development of the neighbourhood and lifestyle of the residents within it.

The neighbourhood is on the east side of the Welland Canal in such areas as Nickel, Welland, Rodney and Kinross Sts., according to Saracino.

Homelessness and unemployment do exist in the community, and Niagara Prosperity Initiative is working to address those issues and the needs of people who find themselves in those situations, he said.

Mary Anne Feagan, program manager at the Port Cares Reach Out Centre, said area residents, businesses and agencies will work together to "help mitigate poverty and make life in the Three Bridges area a little bit better."

Together, the agencies can "more effectively look at the needs of our consumers, clients and citizens," she added.

Feagan said it's exciting to see the commitment from Niagara Region, which has "stepped forward and taken a leading role to help those living in poverty."

■ SOCCER: Wainfleet league short on help

Coaches needed

KAESHA FORAND
InPort News Staff

WAINFLEET — The lines on the pitch have been painted, new nets are up and hundreds of youths are registered for the 33rd season of Wainfleet Youth Soccer, however, club executives have been scrambling to find volunteers and parents to coach and help out.

League president Dave Brown said the executive has been hard at work during the past few weeks preparing for the season which kicks off next Tuesday evening.

However, when it comes to coaches to lead this year's 371 players, not many parents or volunteers are stepping up to the plate — or, more accurately — onto the sidelines.

From 1977 until last year, organizers didn't have problems encouraging people to volunteer as coaches.

"Parents want their kids off in the sports division and volunteer through the next four divisions," Brown said, noting that some parents would volunteer to coach extra teams.

The league also has solid sponsors that help pay for referees and other costs. "Money is not the issue. It's there when that gets us equipment, jerseys and balls."

The league has four divisions — sprites, squirts, atoms and mosquitoes — for children aged five to 16 whose families pay $25 for the season plus a jersey deposit and $50 for non-residents who come from Dunnville, Pelham, Port Colborne and as far as Vineland to play in the Wainfleet league.

"We're struggling this year. We're making phone calls and begging people. You don't want to beg," Vic Denobriga, a member of the club executive, said.

The league is seeking parents of players, teens or volunteers from the community who can chip in on Tuesdays and Thursdays until mid-August. Games start at 6:30 p.m. in the 12-field park behind Wainfleet Township Hall.

Brown said it doesn't matter if volunteers have no coaching experience, adding that the league would have a coaching seminar at Wainfleet Arena to teach novice coaches some basic soccer moves and drills to pass along to their players.

This year Wainfleet Youth Soccer intends to just scrape by with volunteers pulling double duty to help coach additional teams.

However, Brown warned if the shortage continues, next year's registration will be reduced, and teams will be limited to the number of coaches available.

If additional volunteers want to help but don't have much experience, they can be paired with a more experienced coach to learn the do's and don'ts of soccer.

A few game nights during the regular season are substituted with practices to help players learn.

Even high school students seeking community service hours can help out with coaching duties.

Anyone interested in volunteering can contact Brown at 905-899-1755 or e-mail davebrown9100@sympatico.ca.

What is the importance of healthy eating for denture wearers?

The relation between significant tooth loss and the ability to chew fresh fruits, vegetables and meats, has a great impact on the nutritional value of our diet. Toothless or partially edentulous individuals are at a higher risk of malnutrition. Edentulous individuals with poor nutrition intake may be at higher risk for a variety of diseases. For example those who consume little vitamin A are at a higher risk for various forms of cancer, heart disease and rheumatoid arthritis. Similarly the dietary deficiencies of vitamin E are associated with various cancers, heart and Parkinson's Disease and low vitamin C and thiamine levels reduce immune system function, cardiovascular disease, hypertension and nausea, constipation as well as appetite and weight loss. Another ill effect of a low nutrient diet is a loss of muscle mass and strength caused by inadequate intake of protein, which could further increase frailty. An increased intake of fat and cholesterol observed in toothless patients have been associated with obesity, diabetes mellitus, as well as arteriosclerosis.

What can I do to prevent any of this happening to me?

Considering the vast implications of a low nutrient diet, it is worth acknowledging that nutritional balance and good health can be significantly improved and restored with the use of a well made denture, and a vitamin supplement regime planned by your doctor. A well made denture, will allow you to introduce back into your diet all the nutritionally laden foods such as fresh fruits and vegetables, proteins and nuts that were avoided when chewing with an ill-fitting, poorly designed denture. Individuals with implant supported dentures, greatly improve their food choices by including more food to chew foods that are rich in nutrients, therefore greatly improving their health status.

To switch to a more balanced diet may be as easy as having well fitted dentures, that allow for improved chewing and grinding function. The ability to better chew fruits, vegetables, meats and nuts will increase your nutrient intake and may decrease your risk of various disease. For more information see your Denturist.

Road trip + hockey talk = fun

George Duma
BY GEORGE

Road trips are wonderful. They're especially so when you travel with someone who is as easygoing and fun to be with as Rick Cole. Rick and I have been friends for a long time, acquaintances for much longer before that.

I always considered the Niagara Regional Police Service extremely fortunate to have Rick as an officer in its ranks. I also always considered all of us in south Niagara fortunate for the fact Rick spent the majority of his career investigating crimes down here.

We were in good hands. He helped solve some mind-benders. Most of us know a little about a lot of things. One of the brightest people I know, Rick knows a lot about a lot.

But back to the road trip. Rick is a hockey aficionado. Actually, that's not entirely accurate.

He's so much more than that. He's a historian, an expert activist who can pull facts, statistics and figures out of mid-air. He understands not only the history of the game, but its nuances. It's fascinating to discuss hockey with him.

Last Friday morning, Rick picked me up and we were off to Toronto to meet with an associate of his, Paul Patskou.

Paul is a remarkable guy. He is a top authority of archival hockey and football footage, as well as a highly respected writer and researcher.

He owns hours and hours of rare video footage from decades ago and he makes himself available for consulting for hockey and football-related projects, not surprisingly especially those requiring multimedia/archival footage.

Paul has also carried out research, fact-checking and has written articles for books, websites, corporate videos and countless other publications over the years. The Hockey Hall of Fame calls on him often.

In addition, he has collaborated on two books with co-author Kevin Shea.

One is about St. Michael's College School's renowned hockey program titled St. Michael's College: 100 Years of Pucks and Prayers, which I can't wait to read as that is my alma mater, while the other, also co-authored by Kevin Shea is about the Leafs' dynasty of the 1960s and is due out this October.

To meet Paul, though, you'd never guess he has these extensive, impressive credentials. He is a humble, gentle soul, an easy conversationalist and, quite simply, just a nice, sincere decent man. It's clear why he and Rick are friends.

Dear John

The Road

The project has already grown legs of its own

Paul lives in the north end of Toronto off Yonge St. Rick and I made the drive to visit him as the three of us are currently discussing a mutual project that will see us co-produce a hockey book together.

It's a lot of fun and even though it's just in its infancy at the moment, the project has already grown legs of its own and has moved past the preliminary discussion stage.

We're quite excited.

After spending a couple of hours with Paul, Rick and I headed south on Yonge to pick up the 401 and head back down to Niagara.

After stopping in Burlington for lunch at a wonderful Thai restaurant Rick knows, we got off the QEW and took the back roads home, winding our way through Dunnville and into Lowbarks, where Rick grew up.

I saw his old stomping grounds along the lake and we veered north of Lakeshore a bit and down a country road to see the family homestead where he grew up.

It's an idyllic spot, a small, quaint beautiful farmhouse that was once home to four extended families before eventually housing just Rick's family and his grandmother.

GEORGE DUMA for InPort News

Hockey historians and archivists Rick Cole, left, and Paul Patskou are in the process of discussing a hockey project and met in Paul's north Toronto home last Friday. Paul recently collaborated on a book with author Kevin Shea about the Toronto Maple Leafs dynasty of the 1960s. It will be released in October.

There was also once a barn on the property where the Coles raised chickens. It reminded me of Little House on the Prairie, only with lots of huge shade trees.

It's the kind of childhood I can only imagine and one that many folks in and around Port Colborne and Dunnville lived through.

Between the pastoral setting of the countryside and beaches of Lake Erie, I liken it to paradise.

At least that's how it seems to someone who grew up in the Parkdale-Roncesvalles neighbourhood of Toronto.

We went to the country for a week or two each summer and that was it.

My understanding of farming and rural life came pretty much strictly from the annual Royal Agricultural Winter Fair at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

Friends are one of the blessings life gives us

In many a November, we would take a school trip from St. Vincent de Paul on Westminister Ave. to the CNE to see the cows, pigs, chickens, sheep, horses and everything else that went with the fair.

Since it originated in November 1922, the fair has become the world's largest indoor agricultural and international equestrian competition.

The only other contact with rural life and farming was our weekly trek to the St. Lawrence Market on Front Street, where farmers from around Chautauq still come each Saturday morning to sell their goods to the city folk.

Other than that exposure, the big city was all we knew. It was much different from folks here who were raised in rural settings.

"I pretty much grew up on the beach," Rick says. And growing up where he did, Rick of course had the other view of life in an urban setting.

"When I was young, going into Dunwinville on Friday nights to go shopping was a trip to the big city."

Our road trip ended as we pulled back into Port. We're already making plans for the next one.

Friends are one of the blessings life gives us.

And I'm certainly blessed to have Rick as one of mine.

THANKS: City employee retires

Mayor Vance Badawey presented long-time city employee Lana Winfield with a plaque and painting in recognition of her 38 years of service and to wish her the best in her retirement. During her time with the city, Winfield served in almost every department and held several roles including cashier, typist, and confidential secretary to the mayor. She last worked as administrative assistant to Peter Senese, director of financial services. Winfield is the last employee who has worked at all three city hall locations.

STUDENT REPRESENTATIVE

Port High student picked as student trustee

JAMI SWANSON
For InPort News

PORT COLBORNE — James Gillespie has been involved in student politics since Grade 9, when he was elected minister of social affairs for Port Colborne High School's student council.

Now that love of politics has taken Gillespie, who served as student council prime minister this past year, to the next level.

Last month, he was chosen to serve as one of two student trustees for District School Board of Niagara. Five applicants from different schools were considered for the position. Each was asked to make a speech about why they should be chosen for the position.

"I am committed to the constant improvement of our schools and making every student's high school experience the best it can be," Gillespie said.

As trustee, he has the responsibilities to attend board meetings twice a month representing the student voice and run the student trustee senate once a month.

"I feel excited to represent the voice of my fellow students and raise awareness of the student trustee senate," Gillespie said.

Port High teen to join minister's advisory council

KAESHA FORAND
InPort News Staff

PORT COLBORNE — Samantha Burgers wants to take action, reduce bullying and be a leader.

For those reasons, the Port Colborne High School teen applied to become a member of Education Minister Leona Dombrowsky's minister's advisory council.

Burgers heard about the group through a youth councillor at school and decided to apply. She was one of more than 1,000 applicants. She recently learned she is one of 60 high school students from across Ontario chosen to sit on the advisory council.

"I want to make a change instead of just going to school," the 16-year-old said.

The Grade 11 student has attended conferences to learn how to live a healthy life, help other people and one focused on the power of being a girl.

Burgers has been actively involved in the Take Action anti-bullying program. Port High has offered to its feeder schools. It's something close to her heart because she was once bullied.

Well-informed recreational boaters

Canada possesses so many different bodies of water that it isn't surprising that boating activities are so popular. However, we should always keep in mind that navigating on water involves certain dangers and responsibilities which we can all learn about during Safe Boating Awareness Week from May 22 to 28, 2010.

Wearing a lifejacket or personal flotation device is by far the best way of avoiding drowning accidents. Before heading out on the water, operators of pleasure craft should always ensure that they have enough Transport Canada-approved, individual life jackets for everyone on board. Moreover, always watch your level of alcohol consumption. Sometimes we can forget the fact that driving a boat under the influence of alcohol is just as serious as driving a car in the same state. It is essential, therefore, to ensure that the person who is driving is able to do so safely... accidents happen very quickly.

Another important part of boating is to participate actively in the protection of our lakes, rivers and coastal waters by not dumping untreated, used water directly into the water. Keep it on board, along with the garbage you have accumulated during the day, and dispose of it once you have disembarked. If you have smokers on board it is also important to provide them with an ashtray for their cigarette butts.

In short, navigating on the water involves risks and responsibilities, which sailors must assume if we hope to significantly reduce the number of accidents which happen on our rivers, lakes and coastal waters.

There are numerous dangers to navigating on water, so pleasure boaters must always be alert!

■ COMMUNITY OUTREACH

Goal nearing completion

InPort News Staff

WAINFLEET — A 10-year dream has been turned into concrete reality on a Rathfon Rd. construction site.

"The journey has been a long one and not necessarily a smooth one, but it's been wonderful because of the people we have met along the way," Brother Bill Carrothers said.

Carrothers and Sister Jacqueline Keefe spoke at a groundbreaking ceremony of Jericho House last weekend.

Jericho House is a place and ministry that focuses on young people and helps to nurture their sense of leadership, commitment to social and ecological justice and their awareness to spirituality.

Keefe, a Franciscan sister with the Roman Catholic Church, and Carrothers, a member of the congregation of Christian brothers, thanked Jericho House's board of directors, its many volunteers and the build team consisting of Brower Construction, Westside Construction, Rankin Construction, architect Emilio Raimondo and Quarek Group Inc., for all of their work in making the dream a reality.

Jericho House began in Newfoundland in 1987, moved to Ontario in 1989 and into Niagara in 1997. It is now located on Beatrice St. in Welland. The Wainfleet location, expected to be completed this September, is a 1,235-square-metre facility that will feature a chapel, overnight accommodations for 38 people in 18 flexible bedrooms, a dining area, lounges, supervisor suites, laundry rooms, a large meeting room, kitchen and offices and living quarters for staff.

Wainfleet Mayor Barb Henderson, Port Colborne Mayor Vance Badewey, Pelham Mayor Dave Augustyn, Welland MPP Peter Korman and Welland MP Malcolm Allen all spoke at the groundbreaking. Each of them commended Jericho House for the work it does with young people and said the facility and its programs will benefit youth.

FORMER STUDENT HELPS MUSIC PROGRAM

PORT COLBORNE — Though no one knows how to play it, music students at Port Colborne High School were eager to try out their newest musical instrument — an stand-up bass.

Music teacher Derrick Stickney said there are students that can play bass, but stand-up bass is a completely different field.

"We're going to incorporate this into our program. We have a lot of excited students," said Stickney. The bass was donated Friday by former student Mike Lukie.

"We're grateful for the donation," said Stickney. Lukie, who was a District School Board of Niagara trustee for 19 years, bought the stand-up bass when he was a student at Port High.

"It's still in good shape and it needs to be played. I haven't played it in 25 years," he said as to why he donated the instrument.

Lukie hopes his donation will inspire others to help out Port High's music department.

Township of Wainfleet

Official Plan Update Policy Directions Report OPEN HOUSE

The Township of Wainfleet Official Plan is currently being updated. An Official Plan is a policy document that determines how to manage land and resources within Wainfleet to ensure a healthy and vibrant community. Public input is an important part of the multi-step Official Plan process. A number of Public Workshops were held in 2009. Also in 2009 "Background" information respecting the Township, including input from previous public meetings, was compiled by the Township's consultant Sorensen Gravely Lowes Planning Associates into an "Issues and Opportunities Report" which is available on the Township's website.

The consultant has now prepared a "Policy Directions Report" which recommends policy directions for the new Official Plan intended to address the identified issues, opportunities and options. The Report is dated April 2010 and is available on the Township's website. The intent is to seek public and agency input to the proposed "policy directions" before a "draft" new Official Plan is prepared.

You are encouraged to review the document and provide comment, if any, which can be done as noted below. In order to provide opportunity for you to ask questions about, or to make comment to, the "Policy Directions Report" an "Open House" will be held at the time and date below. The Open House will provide any interested parties access to the Consulting team and Township staff.
